

Chapter 5: Self in Social Cognition

1. b. Person-situation interaction
2. c. Transference
3. c. Possible selves
4. a. An interpreter
5. d. Self-schematic information
6. b. A general indicator of how one is doing in the eyes of others
7. d. All of the above
8. c. People prefer other people and things that resemble the self
9. c. A contingency of self-worth
10. a. European Americans, East Asians
11. b. Interdependent perception of self
12. a. Independent perception of self
13. d. Both A and B
14. d. Either B or C
15. c. An effort to meet others' expectations
16. b. Depression
17. d. Self-efficacy
18. b. Assess any difficulties in the process
19. b. Hedonic emotions
20. d. All of the above
21. a. Self-enhancement
22. c. Social comparison
23. d. Positive illusions
24. a. Accountability
25. c. When people cope with threats to their self-worth by endorsing other, unrelated aspects of themselves
26. d. All of the above
27. d. Both A and C
28. a. Project her unfavorable qualities onto the homeless man