Citing, referencing and producing a bibliography

STUDENT HANDOUT

Work with your group members to research, prepare and practise a teaching session on citing, referencing and producing a bibliography. You will have 20 minutes in which to deliver your teaching session to your peers, when we next meet. There will also be some time available at the end of the session for discussion, questions and to evaluate each group teaching session.

Your teaching session must cover citing, referencing and producing a bibliography. However, the focus, structure, style and delivery method are a group choice and you can use any equipment, materials and props that you deem appropriate. Ensure that your teaching session is interesting, informative and creative. Your peers should learn from your session and should be engaged and interested in what you are teaching. You will also sit through teaching sessions delivered by your peers so you can learn more about the topic and will be able to ask questions based on what you already know.

Learning outcome: By the end of this activity you will understand how to cite, reference and produce a bibliography and will be able to apply this understanding during your course when producing assignments, projects and dissertations.
