

FURTHER RESEARCH QUESTIONS

Much of the literature concerning positive behaviour management assumes that children seek adult and peer attention. What research evidence is there regarding children's need for attention? Is your attention and approval important to most pupils?

What does research evidence have to say about the effectiveness of corporal punishment? How does this compare with the views of teachers, parents and the media?

What role can ICT have in modifying the behaviour of disaffected individuals?