

Framing effect: tendency to be persuaded by the way information is presented.