

Mediating variable: variable that helps explain the relationship between two other variables.