

Positively skewed distribution: data distribution in which there are a few unusually high (skewed) scores; most scores tend to be toward the low end of the distribution.