

One-way, between-subjects ANOVA: analysis in which there is one independent variable and each participant is assigned to one and only one experimental level.