Subject Index

acceptance of the client, 125–6 accreditation of practitioners and training courses, 201, 205 actualising process, 15–16, 19–20, 24–5, 28 actualising tendency, 9–11, 15–20, 24; definition of, 15
'affirming' (Cain), 80, 148 agency, clients', 2, 54, 64, 204 agency policies, 142
audio-recording of counselling sessions, 143–4 beginning phase of counselling, 135–40, 145–6, 161 boundaries, setting of, 203–4

British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy (BACP), 4–5, 198, 205–6; Directory of, 201
British Psychological Society, 198

'capacity for contact', 120 case-notes, 146
case study research, 191–2, 198–9
'censorship' of counsellors' responses, 106 change: research into the process of, 195; 'seismic' and 'osmotic', 163 child abuse, 27
Christian tradition, 37 client-centred practice, 2–3, 181
'clues' given by clients, 139 cognitive behavioural therapy (CBT), 188–91, 204 comfort zones, 23
community, importance of, 18 conditionality of liking, 92–4 conditions of worth, 8–10, 38, 40, 51, 81–2, 202 configurations of the self, 27–33, 42, 76, 123, 155, 160, 186; definition of, 28–9 congruence, 13–14, 38, 42, 49, 53, 97–128, 166, 182, 194–5; definition of, 117; development of, 118–20; guidelines for, 115–18; importance of, 102–7; link with empathy, 125; link with unconditional positive regard, 125–6; mutual, 194; as a state of being, 100 continuing professional development, 120–1 contracting with clients, 141, 144 controlled experiments, 185 CORE (clinical outcomes routine evaluation) questionnaire, 189 core conditions, 13–14, 48, 52–4, 135, 165, 182–3; in combination, 124–7
'counterconditioning' (Lietaer), 82 cultural diversity, 74

denial, 31
dependency of clients, 204–5 depression, 10, 139, 165 depth reflection, 59, 65 detachment, 23
developmental agendas of counsellors, 120–4, 167, 178–9, 199
'difficult process' (Warner), 26, 28
'disguises' adopted by clients, 139 dislike of clients, feelings of, 45–6 disorder, 25
'dissociated process' (Warner), 27
dissonance: felt by clients, 32; felt by counsellors, 94 duration of counselling sessions, 142

'edge of awareness', 65, 68, 75 effectiveness of person-centred counselling, 187–92 ego-syntonic process, 20–3, 28, 33, 161 emotional abuse, 22
empathic ability: of clients, 202–3; of counsellors, 194 empathic failure, 26
empathic resonance, 108–9, 116 empathic response, 57–61, 70 empathic sensitivity, 71–4 empathic understanding, 13–14, 37 empathy, 26, 53, 55–77, 85–6, 166, 193; blocks to, 72–6; definition of, 55; development of, 41–2; importance in counselling, 63–4; link with congruence, 125; and locus of evaluation, 62–3; process of, 57–65; scales of, 58–60; with different parts of the client, 76–7 empathy cycle, 193
encounter groups, 52
ending of counselling process, 172–7; premature, 174; preparation for, 175–7 ethnic backgrounds of clients, 74 evidence-based practice, 190 existential depths, 166

existential process, 33–5, 51
existential self, 51–2
'existential touchstones', 123–4, 167, 179 expansion of the self, counsellor's, 123–4, 165 experiencing: client's, 68–9, 72, 115, 124, 202; counsellor's, 102, 116, 127 experimentation by counsellors, 119–21

fairy-tale endings, 173 false empathy, 73
false memories, 62
fantasies of clients, 44 feedback from clients, 180 fees for counselling, 144–5 felt sense, 65–7
fixity, 25
'flight into health', 174
'fluidity', 25
focusing, 39, 64–8
follow-up interviews, 191
'fragile process', 23, 26, 28, 147 frames of reference, 57, 71, 126, 186 frequency of counselling sessions, 141–2 friendship between counsellors and ex-clients, 178
'fully functioning persons' (Rogers), 12 genuineness, 42, 45, 101, 162, 194–5 group work for counsellors, 113 guilt feelings of counsellors, 40

'handle-words' (Gendlin), 65–7
'hardened' clients, 137–8 healing process, freeing the, 162–3 humanity, counsellors' experience of, 121–2 humour, use of, 71, 139 incongruence, 99–101, 113–15, 124–7; two distinct forms of, 114–15 informed consent, 143

institutional working, 94 integrative practice, 201–2 interrelatedness with clients, 50 intervision, 121
intimacy, moments of, 161–2 introjections about self, 30 Islam, 19, 74

Japanese culture, 18 journals kept by counsellors, 39

leaflets on counselling arrangements, 144
'letting be, letting grow and letting go', 47
'liking' for clients, 80–1; see also conditionality of liking locus of evaluation, 11–12, 20, 62–3, 96, 112, 164, 169, 172, 174, 205 meditation, 39

mental health services, 99 metacommunication, 110–12 metaphors, use of, 66 methodological pluralism, 185 middle period of counselling, 160 missed appointments, 46, 145 mistakes in counselling, 166 movement in person-centred counselling, 163 mutuality, 53, 162, 178, 194

National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE), 190–1 natural healing process, 162–4 non-directive counselling, 2, 95–7, 181 non-possessive warmth, 80 norms, societal and cultural, 11 object relations theory, 32 open-ended counselling arrangements, 141 opening statements, 136 openness towards new clients, 131–2 organismic valuing process, 9–12, 19 orientations of counsellors, 202 outcome research and outcome measures, 2, 182–3, 188–91 over-involvement with clients, 75, 160, 167–8; forms of, 167

payment, 144–5 person-centred counselling: combined with other approaches, 201–2; as a distinctive form of therapy, 183–4; effectiveness of, 187–92; key aspects of, 201–2; modern conception of, 33–5; use of term, 3–4 person-centred counsellors: acceptance of self by, 39–41; attitudes and qualities of, 37–8, 196–7; changing selves of, 50–1; commitment of, 46–7; listening to self by, 38–9; self-questioning of, 43; self-questioning, 43; unique selves of, 48–9 Person-Centered and Experiential Psycho-therapies (journal), 5, 205 personal language, 84–5, 139 personal resonance, 109, 111, 157 personal theories, 72–3 PersonalityTheory (Rogers), 17 phenomenal reality, 104–6 poetry, writing of, 39 political issues, 152, 204, 206 portrayals of self, 51–2 positive regard, need for, 10 power games, 129–30
power imbalance between counsellor and client, 132, 135–6 practical wisdom, 196

practice-based research, 177, 188–91 practice research networks, 198–9 prejudices of counsellors, 127 presentational aspects of self, 51 pre-therapy, 70–1
primary care counselling, 142–3
'prizing' (Rogers), 80
process research, 192–7
'professional distance', 91 psychodynamic practice, 23 psychological theories, 19, 72 psychology, discipline of, 41, 72–3

Q-sort methodology, 185–6 quantitative and qualitative research, 41, 184–5, 198 questionnaires, use of, 186, 189

randomised controlled trials (RCTs), 188–91 rating scales, 186
readiness for counselling, client's, 135, 150 referral letters and documentation, 131 reflection, different kinds of, 70 rehearsed material (Rogers), 65 relational depth, 3, 6, 35–6, 51–4, 69, 89, 94, 120, 123–4, 145–6, 156, 160–2, 165–6, 179, 194, 196 relationship between counsellor and client, 43–8, 98; see also therapeutic relationship Representations of Interactions that have become Generalised (RIGs) (Stern), 22 research awareness, 4–5 research on person-centred counselling, 180–200; benefits from, 122, 180–1; gaps in, 200; historical development of, 181–4; personal engagement in, 197–9; process research, 192–7; tools and methods of, 181, 184–7 research papers, reading of, 197–8 researcher allegiance effects, 189 resonance, 65–7, 107–10; see also empathic resonance; personal resonance; self-resonance responsibility to clients and responsibility for clients, 44, 166 reviewing the counselling process, 175–7 risk-taking in relationships, 125 schizophrenia, 63, 109, 182 scientific inquiry, 187 self-acceptance: client's, 160, 164–5, 172–3; counsellor's, 39–41, 166 self-concept, 7–13, 20–1, 181 self-dialogues, 28–9

self-experiences, 30–1
self-pluralism theory, 28–30, 76 self-protectiveness: of clients, 82–4; of counsellors, 75 self-resonance, 108, 111–12, 116–18, 167
'selfishness' of clients, 202–3 sensitivity to others, 71 sexual relationships with clients, 88, 167–8, 178 sexuality, counsellors', 168 short-term counselling, 142, 175
'showing your working', 90–1, 102–3, 106 small talk, avoidance of, 136 social control, 204, 206 social mediation, 11, 19–20, 24, 173, 203 social psychology, 51
social restraint, 17–18
social validation, 11 social work profession, 206 socialisation of counsellors, 18–19, 127 stuckness, 86, 157–8, 163 supervision, 5, 38, 75, 113, 119–22, 125, 143–4, 167, 206 supportive therapy, 189 sympathy towards clients, 74 symptom reduction, 2, 184, 204 symptom substitution, 164 theories, psychological and personal, 72–3 theory-building research, 193 therapeutic alliance, 52, 183 therapeutic relationship, 30, 86, 103, 146, 161–2, 165, 167 time-limited counselling, 142 touching of clients, 91–2 training of person-centred counsellors, 71, 94, 100, 113, 118, 120, 198 transparency, 44, 101–3, 162 trust within the counselling relationship, 90, 103–4, 135–40, 145–6, 160, 167 unconditional positive regard, 13–14, 78, 81–5, 88, 92–6, 118, 125, 138, 196; importance of, 81–3; link with congruence, 125–6 underlying feelings, 65 understanding what clients are saying, 63–4, 68–70

'unfinished business', 177
'unspoken relationship', 87, 106, 111 valuing of the client, 81–3, 87, 93–4, 164, 166 warmth, showing of, 89–90; see also non-possessive warmth willingness to be known, counsellor's, 110, 115 Wisconsin Project, 99, 182, 194

World Association for Person-Centered and Experiential Psychotherapy and Counseling, 3–4